THE COMMENCEMENT OF 1911

THE public exercises of the commencement season began on Sunday morning with the annual class meeting, led by Professor W. F. Swahlen, and attended by a large number of students and visitors.

At 10:30 A. M. Meharry Hall was full to its limit. The Faculty were seated on the platform, arrayed in their many colored hoods and gowns significant of their post collegiate degrees of Master and Doctor, and the particular field of study and research in which those degrees were won.

The Senior Class, clothed in the uniform cap and gown of academic bachelors, were seated directly in front. Dean R. G. McCutchan, the new head of the Music School, together with a chorus of his students, led the congregational singing. Miss Ivy Smith, daughter of Rev. G. M. Smith, D.D., pastor of our church in Shelbyville, Ind., sang one solo, and Dean McCutchan sang another, both of them to the great pleasure of the audience. The Rev. Kirk Waldo Robbins, D.D., pastor of College Avenue Church in Greencastle, led in the opening prayer. President McConnell preached the baccalaureate sermon, using as text, "We know in part."

No such brief report as the limits of our space would allow, would do fair justice to that sermon. Its general drift may be indicated, however, in a few words:

"The words of one of God's greatest men—one of the most learned scholars and greatest thinkers of his age—but he said, 'We know in part.' Paul was too wise to say more than that."

"There are many things which it is not necessary to know: many things are not worth while to know: some things it is far better never to know."

"There are many things which it is worth while to know: many things it is highly important to know: some things are so vitally necessary to be known that they must not be neglected. Of this latter, the truth that God is good and that a man's own individual 'Amen' to God's will for him is not only high duty but the highest possible self-interest. Tennyson said, 'I hope to meet my pilot when I have crossed the bar.' Paul said, 'I know whom I have believed. I have fought a good fight, I have kept the faith, I have finished my course, henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness which the Lord, the righteous Judge, will give me.' "

THE UNIVERSITY SERMON

The University Sermon, delivered on Sunday night of Commencement Week by some eminent preacher, generally of the Methodist Church, and frequently by an alumnus of the University, has for many years been considered an important feature in the program. This year college people and the public had the pleasure of hearing a distinguished son of DePauw and an honored citizen of a foreign country preach the sermon. Much interest had been aroused and a large congregation was present to hear Dr. Sennosuki Ogata, of Japan. He was converted to Christianity thirty years ago in San Francisco, and soon after entered DePauw University and graduated in the Class of 1885. After graduation, he returned to his native country, and as a minister and teacher has for a quarter of a century exerted a great influence both in Church and State, in Japan. Ogata is an earnest Christian, a profound scholar and speaks the English language quite fluently. His address made a marked impression on his audience. He is a great admirer of the United States and a warm friend to her people. President McConnell, in introducing him, said that twenty-six years ago this Commencement, when a boy in his 'teens, he came with his father, who was pastor of a church in Indianapolis, to Greencastle to attend Commencement, and remembers well seeing young Ogata walk up and receive his diploma from the hands of President Martin, and now, as President of DePauw, it gave him great pleasure to welcome him back to his Alma Mater and present him as the speaker of the evening.

Dr. Ogata took as his theme, "The Chosen Nation," and based his sermon on the words, "Blessed is the nation whose God is the Lord, and the people whom he hath chosen for his inheritance," from Psalm 33. Dr. Ogata believes that America is God's chosen nation, the child of Providence, and has yet a great destiny to fulfill. It has already done a mighty work but still has a grand future. He said the Japanese owe to America a debt of gratitude which they never can pay, for sending Commander Perry to their hermit isles in 1853 and opening their isolated and darkened country to the light of civilization and the progress of the world. Japan is the child of America and will ever be loyal. It is folly to talk of war between Japan and the United States. He spoke of the marvelous progress of Japan since it saw the light a half century ago, the growth in liberal education and the uplift in every direction. The influence of Christianity upon his people has been wonderful in bringing about great reforms in every direction. He was hopeful of the future of his country. He expressed his great delight in coming back to his Alma Mater after an absence of over a quarter of a century, and was thankful for the kindly greetings he had received, and pleased to notice the evidence of prosperity and progress in old DePauw.

MONDAY'S PROGRAM

At the Senior chapel exercises this morning President McConnell's address to the Seniors on behalf of the Faculty was full of bristling points, valuable and timely admonitions and not wanting in pure fun.

He spoke first of Individuality, second of Originality, and third he admonished the graduates not to think that the world is resting on their shoulders. This is too heavy a load to carry. He advocated co-education with emphasis, and said it had the tendency to dispel the ideals the sexes may have formed of each other. The young man whom the young lady met at 10:30 P. M. in dress suit was a very different person when met at 10:30 A. M. in the recitation room. His immaculate white shirt front was gone, dress suit no more, and in a careless, and perhaps slouchy garb, he flunked in his recitation. What a fall was that, my countrymen?

With such illustrations as this he showed that co-education was a great means of correcting false impressions, and hence valuable to both young men and to young women.

The Class Day exercises followed immediately after Mr. Hartsock's response to Dr. McConnell's address.

Miss Mallie Elder gave the class history, tracing the life of 1911 from her entry as a tribe of green Freshmen to the final achievements of this day. The class poem by Miss Geraldine Smith was a very pretty piece of art and was very creditably delivered. Miss Bernice Church followed with two very pretty songs, "If I Only Knew" and an Irish love song.

The class will was given by Claudia Armstrong, followed by the class prophecy, read by Miss Glennis Life. Both of these numbers were very good and did credit to the class.

Miss Imogene McLean rendered a very delightful piano solo, followed by Buren C. Mitchell with the class oration. Mitchell appeared in his usual style and won the whole house with his eloquence. The theme of the speech was Mental Ability, Personality and Determination.

The presentation of five hundred dollars as the class gift toward the endowment fund of the University was made by John T. Clark, President of the outgoing class.

As the closing of the exercises the Seniors marched to the platform and, standing, sang the class song. As is the custom, the Class of 1912 took the seats left vacant by the students in caps and gowns, thus assuring the college of another graduating membership.

SENIOR RECEPTION

The Towers, the spacious home of President and Mrs. McConnell, was thrown open Monday evening for a reception given by President and Mrs. McConnell and the Board of Trustees of the University to the Senior Class and Commencement visitors.

The lawn was lighted with Japanese lanterns. The several rooms were beautifully decorated with yellow and white daisies, green and white tulle, and for the decoration of the center piece of the table a large bouquet of white roses and white carnations was used. Hanging baskets also were used between the double doors in the parlors and dining room.

President and Mrs. McConnell were assisted in caring for their guests by Mrs. F. C. Tilden, Mrs. J. P. Naylor, Mrs. W. V. Brown, Mrs. Edwin Post, Mrs. Andrew Stephenson, Mrs. H. B. Gough, and Mrs. H. B. Longden.

In the receiving line were President and Mrs. McConnell, Mr. Campbell, of South Bend, Mr. and Mrs. McFarland, Mr. and Mrs. Faris, of Terre Haute, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. O'Hair, Dr. and Mrs. Swahlen, Colonel and Mrs. Weaver, Dr. and Mrs. Gobin, Dr. and Mrs. Wade, Dean and Mrs. McCutchan, and Mr. Carpenter, of Brazil.

Music was furnished during the evening by an orchestra.

Refreshments of ice cream and cake were served. Sweet peas were given as favors.

MONDAY EVENING CONCERT

The Commencement Concert, given at Locust Street Methodist Church on Monday evening, was a pleasing variation in the series of Commencement Week events. The use of the church made possible the utilizing of its excellent pipe organ, and the range of the character of the musical numbers of the entertainment was thereby much extended. It was a popular form of entertainment for the Commencement visitors and town people, and at the same time it was a splendid evidence of the character of work that can be produced by the Faculty and students of the School of Music. The audience, which occupied all of the seats of the large auditorium, was liberal with its applause, and several times wished encore numbers given, but none was granted by the performers.

The program was a well-balanced selection of voice, piano, pipe organ, and string quartet numbers, Dean McCutchan contributing the voice numbers with Miss Owens singing the soprano score of the duet from "The Rose Maiden," the number being the beautiful "The Rose of Love." Miss Aldah McCoy and Mr. Norris, of the Faculty, gave the piano and pipe organ numbers, respectively, Mr. Norris having piano assistance by Mr. Rhea on one number. Misses Hickey and Roper, Messrs. Pelham and Clark formed the string quartet that appeared for two numbers.

TUESDAY'S PROGRAM

The Tuesday of Commencement Week is always given over to the entertainment and pleasure of the Alumni.

The chapel exercise in Meharry Hall at 8:30 A. M., conducted by some visiting alumnus, is followed by an hour or more of miscellaneous wit, wisdom and fun, as the roll of the classes is called.

This year Dr. McConnell, as master of ceremonies, was at his best, and the interest ran high. When the Class of 1845 was called, Dr. William R. Genung, of Ft. Branch, Ind., arose in response.

Dr. McConnell announced that another member of the class, Mr. Thomas E. Talbott, of Greencastle, was in a carriage in the campus, but too feeble to be brought upstairs. He then said further, that in 1845 the College was too poor to afford parchment diplomas, and that consequently the members of that class had received instead a simple statement of the fact of their graduation written by the hand of President Simpson. This fact having become known to the present administration during the past year, diplomas had been made out for the three survivors of the class, Dr. William H. Larrabee, of Plainfield, N. J., Dr. Genung and Mr. Talbott. Dr. Genung's diploma was handed to him then and the diploma for Mr. Talbott was handed to him by President McConnell at the close of this chapel exercise. Dr. E. E. Edwards answered the call for Class of 1853. Revs. Noah Lathrop and Hiram Lipe, both of Iowa, responded to the call of 1854. The latter had not visited the College since his graduation. They were called to the platform and each made a pleasing and witty speech. Prof. O. H. Smith, of Greencastle, answered for '56. When '59 was called Dr. McConnell announced that a duplicate diploma had been prepared and would be sent to H. S. Albin, of Chicago, to replace the original, burned in the great fire in that city. Prof. Jason L. Rippetoe responded for '63, S. B. Town for '66, the Hon. John Obermyer, of North Vernon, Ind., for '67, Hon. J. R. Miller, Mayor of Greencastle, for '68, and Dr. H. A. Gobin for '70. When the Class of 1871 was called, Dr. McConnell announced that during the past year a distinguished member of that class, the Rev. W. R. Halstead, D.D., and his wife, Mrs. Ella Briggs Halstead, had given to the University a deed for real estate which is conservatively valued at $40,000 or more. Hon. Silas A. Hays answered the call to '72 and Colonel L. A. Barnett that to 1873. When '74 was called, Mr. L. D. McClain, of Charleston, S. C., responded most happily and closed with one verse of an old song reminiscent of the anti-coed sentiment in the College in his day. Dr. T. J. Bassett answered for the Class of '75, the Hon. George W. Faris, of Washington, D. C., for '77, Dr. J. H. Taylor for '78, Miss Martha Ridpath for '79, Dr. Andrew Stephenson for '82, Dr. Sennosuki Ogata for '85, and United States District Attorney Charles A. Houts, of St. Louis, for '91. As the later classes were called the members answered in larger and larger numbers, but only rising from their seats and standing in silence, the time for this exercise having expired. Other visiting alumni recognized in the Hall or on the campus later, as the writer's notes of the day recall: Rev. W. F. Walker, D.D., of the Class of 1868; Dr. H. W. Ridpath, '81; Mrs. L. M. Krider, '85; M. M. Bachelder, '86; Schuyler Haas, '87; Guy M. Walker and wife, '90; of the Class of 1891, E. W. Stuckey, Merle N. A. Walker, Frank M. Littleton, J. D. Hogate and Clay Metzger, ex-'91, and Miss Julia Southard Nutter, Music, '91. Of 1892, Miss Nellie B. Fatout, of Brooklyn, N. Y.; Frank Pulse, of '93; Dr. Harry Langdon, '96; of '97, Harriet Harding, Homer B. Faller and wife, Eugene Shireman and wife, and Elinor Towne; Will W. Lockwood and wife, of '98; Orin Walker, '99; Joe Pulse and Roy J. Tuller, 1900; Charles S. Levings and wife and Arthur Osborne, '01; Maurice Tennant and wife, '02; of the Class of 1903, Mrs. C. M. Cauble and her husband, Will A. Cavin and wife, Miss Ada Shafer, Robert O. Kimberlin and wife, and Salem L. Towne and wife; J. W. McFall, '04; John H. Bohn, '05; Lockwood Towne and wife, '05; John Benson and wife, '06; of the Class of '07, Charles Jewett, Stanley Gibson, and Carl Watson; of '08, Fred Tucker, Pearl Maze, and Mae Lockwood; David Whitcomb, '09; Fletcher Ayers, '09, and of the Class of 1910, Henry McLean, John Eden, Wilburt Ward, Cecil Boyle.

ALUMNI BANQUET

The Alumni banquet was held at 12 o'clock in Woman's Hall. Professor Tilden, President of the Association, was chairman and toastmaster. A short business session was held before the banquet began. Miss Ridpath, Secretary, read her report of last year's meeting, and the result of the recent election of officers and trustees.

ALUMNI ELECTION

The election of the Alumni resulted as follows:

President, Francis Tilden, '97.

First Vice-President, J. M. Ogden, '94.

Second Vice-President, Miss Lillian Southard, '83.

Secretary, Miss Martha Ridpath, '79.

New Trustees: J. M. Ogden, '94, and Ira Blackstock, '86.

The banquet was gotten up in the best of Mrs. Black's style and enjoyed very much by 175 members of the Alumni Association, with their wives or husbands.

The toasts were as follows:

"Old DePauw and New Japan," by Dr. Ogata, '85. He spoke stirring words of his life, of his conversion to Christianity, his education and his work in Japan, and the great pleasure in being back again in college circles at old DePauw.

"Getting Home," S. S. Stratton's speech, was full of fine points and pure fun. He hit in a mild way some of the old-time professors.

"New DePauw and Old China" was responded to by Will Lockwood. He spoke of the good DePauw has done for old China. This good is represented by the work of such men as Dr. Walker, a DePauw graduate, who went to China to spend his life in preaching Christ's Gospel to that heathen land. Mrs. Locke and her husband, who gave their lives to the missionary work of that country, were mentioned, Mrs. Locke being a DePauw graduate. The third example mentioned was that of Wilbur Helm, another DePauw man, who gave his life to the Christian work of the East. He paid a handsome tribute to Mr. Helm.

"Getting Started," by Carl Watson, and "The Top Branch," by Foster Randel, were short toasts, but to the point, closing the program.

Immediately after the adjournment from the banquet table, the annual baseball game between Alumni and 'Varsity was played on McKeen Field, the score being 5 to 0 in favor of the 'Varsity.

The late afternoon and evening of Tuesday were filled up with reunions of classes and societies and social functions of many kinds. In the evening the Senior Class entertained as many people as Meharry Hall could possibly hold, with a rendering of "The County Chairman."

COMMENCEMENT DAY

On Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock Meharry Hall was filled again with an expectant audience. After the singing of Hymn No. 510, the Rev. L. F. Dimmitt, D.D., Class of 1894, District Superintendent of the Bloomington District, Indiana Conference, led in prayer. Dean McCutchan, of the Music School, sang a beautiful solo, after which the Commencement oration was delivered by President George E. Vincent, Ph.D., LL.D., of the University of Minnesota. It is needless to say to any one who is acquainted with the orator of the day that the oration was abundantly equal to the occasion.

After conferring the Bachelor's degree upon the members of the graduating class, President McConnell announced honorary degrees conferred as follows:

Doctor of Divinity—The Rev. James A. Beatty, District Superintendent in the North Indiana Conference; the Rev. L. C. Bentley, District Superintendent in the Indiana Conference, and the Rev. William E. McKenzie, Corresponding Secretary of the Methodist Hospital at Indianapolis. Doctor of Letters—William Paxton Burris, Dean of the Teachers' College of the University of Cincinnati. Doctor of Laws—The Rev. Thomas Kane, President of the University of the State of Washington, and the Hon. Willis Vandevanter, Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States.

The benediction was pronounced by Vice-President Gobin.

The Joint Board of Trustees and Official Conference Visitors convened in annual session on Monday afternoon in Plato Hall.

Present: Hon. Hugh Dougherty, President of the Marion Trust Company, Indianapolis, President of the Board; Dr. F. J. McConnell, President of the University; Salem B. Town, Financial Secretary of the University; Rev. W. D. Parr, D.D., Kokomo, Ind.; Dr. George F. Keiper, Lafayette, Ind.; Mr. Charles E. J. McFarlan, Vice-President of the McFarlan Carriage Company, Connersville, Ind.; Mr. R. L. O'Hair, President of the Central National Bank, and the Central Trust Company, Greencastle, Ind.; Mr. Harry H. Whitcomb, President of the Shelbyville Trust Company, Shelbyville, Ind.; Hon. Marion Campbell, President of the South Bend Folding Paper Box Company and the South Bend National Bank, South Bend, Ind.; Dr. John F. Simison, Romney, Ind.; Rev. Charles E. Bacon, D.D., Secretary of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America, Chicago, Ill.; Mr. William H. Charles, Attorney, Marion, Ind.; Mr. William E. Carpenter, Secretary and Treasurer of the Brazil Trust Company and Director in the Citizens National Bank, Brazil, Ind.; Hon. George W. Faris, Attorney, Washington, D. C.; Mr. Will H. Latta, Attorney, Indianapolis, Ind.; Mr. Ralph S. Todd, President of the Studebaker Bank, Bluffton, Ind.; Mr. Frank C. Evans, Crawfordsville, Ind.; Mr. A. S. Cecil, Muncie, Ind.; Rev. H. C. Clippinger, D.D., Indianapolis, Ind.; Rev. George W. Switzer, D.D., Rev. T. J. Bassett, D.D., and Rev. Demetrius Tillotson, D.D., Lafayette, Ind.; Rev. Charles E. Line, D.D., Superintendent Muncie District, Muncie, Ind.; Rev. L. M. Krider, Alexandria, Ind., and the Rev. Chesteen W. Smith, D.D., Anderson, Ind.

The annual reports of Presidents Dougherty and McConnell, the Treasurers of the endowment and current expense funds, the Union Trust Company of Indianapolis and the Central Trust Company of Greencastle, Financial Secretary Town and Endowment Secretary Wade, were all received with satisfaction and hearty approval by the Board.

The absence of Mr. Alfred E. Dickey and the Rev. Deloss M. Wood, D.D., two of the most faithful and efficient members of this Board, both of whom have died during the last year, was felt most keenly. Resolutions expressive of appreciation of the long and valuable service they have rendered the University, and expressing sympathy for their bereaved families, were adopted and spread upon the minutes.

PRESIDENT M'CONNELL'S REPORT

"I regret the necessity to make formal announcement to you of the death of two of the most faithful and efficient members of your Board; two men on whose counsel I found it wise to depend; I refer to Mr. Alfred E. Dickey and the Rev. Dr. Deloss M. Wood, both of whom have died since your last annual session. I take it for granted that you will take some appropriate action in the case.

"In this connection I wish to nominate Judge Quincy A. Myers, of Logansport, to fill one of the vacant Trusteeships in your Board.

"The regular work of the college year began September 28, 1910. The attendance in the College of Liberal Arts has been 753, counting none but those who are in good faith studying for the A.B. degree. In other departments of the institution the enrollment was practically the same as last year, reaching a total of 1,040. The increased enrollment in the College is very gratifying because of the fact that this year we are making demands of the college classes which we have never made before. Last year we ceased to give nine hours' credit for gymnasium work and now give only two hours' credit for that work, thus making necessary seven hours more of college work for the degree of A.B.

"The order throughout the student body has been excellent. All the cases of serious discipline can be counted on the fingers of one hand and the general temper of the student body has been wholesome. The year has been passed in steady work.

"At the first of the year complaint came from the students that they were overworked. This came from the change of plan from term to semester and consequent re-adjustment all along the line, and from the fact that the social affairs were crowded into the second semester. This is not as it should be. If the students were overworked in the first semester, it would be fair to say that they were underworked in the second semester on account of the number of social events in that semester. Yet the handling of social matters shows some improvement over the preceding year, and the spirit of earnestness in the school is quite marked. The average student has worked hard, in some departments, I am persuaded that the average student has worked too hard.

"Some professors exact a great deal of students in the way of collateral reading, more than the student has time to accomplish. One difficulty at DePauw is that tradition has given each professor supreme power in his own department, and in some cases it appears that he has acted, no doubt unintentionally, without regard for the rights of other departments. It is a very serious question as to how far the President is entitled to go in dealing with cases where professors are exacting too much, but the situation at DePauw calls for stronger dealing in such cases than has been thought permissible in the past. This is not entered in a spirit of complaint. The situation is a growth rather than the outcome of any one's intention.

"Professor Post, as you know, was away on leave during all of the first semester. Meantime I took care of his work as Dean of Scholarship and Miss Shearer handled satisfactorily the work of instruction in Latin. I am pleased to say that the renewed vigor and strength Dr. Post has put into his work during the second semester abundantly justifies the vacation you granted him.

"Beginning with January 1, 1911, Mr. Robert Guy McCutchan has been in full charge of the Music School as Dean. His report to you I now place in the hands of your Secretary.

"The Greencastle Academy is prospering finely under the able leadership of Mr. Wilson.

"All of our new instructors are showing themselves to be thoroughly efficient in their work.

"For two years I have been honored with position on the Board of Preachers of Harvard University. This has necessitated my being absent in Cambridge two weeks in each half-year. During these two weeks I have had entire charge of all religious exercises supported by Harvard University. I have felt that I was justified in taking this time away from Greencastle because of the opportunity furnished me to study at first hand the educational situation in one of the greatest institutions in the world. It will be remembered that I came to the Presidency of DePauw immediately from the pastorate without any opportunity of late years to familiarize myself with educational matters. The time spent at Harvard has given me the finest opportunity to supplement this lack.

"At the meeting of the Board last December a proposition was raised before you by Mr. Marvin Campbell, looking to the raising of the fees at DePauw. I recommend that you vote that, beginning with September, 1912, the fees of the University be raised to a total not exceeding $60 per year. As you are aware, this coming year is the last in which we have the benefit of the Campbell Fund. I think that the increase to sixty dollars will cover the loss from the lack of that fund, but that the increase to any larger sum than sixty dollars would be detrimental to the interests of the University."

(Action on this recommendation was deferred so that there will be no increase in the fees next year.—Editor.)

"I have no suggestion at the present time concerning the increase of efficiency in educational forces except to re-affirm my belief that we are doing absolutely the best we can with the present income of the institution. Any further suggestion will be out of place until we have made a success of our endowment campaign now in progress.

"I would like to say, however, that Prof. Henry B. Longden this year completes his thirtieth year of consecutive teaching at DePauw. I recommend that Professor Longden be given leave of absence for the next year on half pay. I do this for two reasons: Professor Longden personally deserves this recognition, and, second, I think it advisable to adopt, at least in a modified form, something approaching the sabbatical system of absences for professors who work as heads of departments."

(Recommendation with regard to Professor Longden was heartily approved by the Board.—Editor.)

"As you will observe from Dr. Town's report, the year has been very successful financially. We do not close with a large balance in the bank, but we close with a balance. In view of the extraordinary expenditures of the year, we feel that this is a great triumph. Within the last six years, while the expense account has risen from $52,252.65 to $79,236.16 per year, there has not been a deficit in the treasury at the end of the year on that account.

"I am pleased to report that the campaign for doubling our endowment is going on solidly and surely. The total subscription to date is two hundred and fifty thousand dollars. When you remember that on the first day of last October we had not begun to take subscriptions, you must see how faithful and successful has been the work of Dr. Wade and his associates, Brothers Myers, Powell, Hoagland, Smith, and Gaither. We must not forget, however, that we have left but six months in which to secure the remainder of $150,000, and that to secure so large a sum as that after what has already been done will require the most heroic exertion on the part of every one connected with the University."

(At this date, August 12, the subscription has risen to $270,600.—Editor.)

NON-GRADUATE STUDENTS

In the course of the years past a great number of students have matriculated and continued in the University for one or more years, who then dropped out and hence were never graduated.

Some of them went elsewhere, but the large majority of them closed their college days with us. Among these non-graduates we have often found as loyal a friend of the institution as could be found upon the roll of alumni. And many of them have wrought well and achieved distinction in their life work. In times past we have often wished that we might send an occasional word of greeting to each of them just as we do to every alumnus whose post office address we know. But there was the point of defeat. We do not know the present address of many of that class, and we do not know how to get it. A few months ago we employed a special clerk to go through all of the catalogues back to 1860, to list for us as best he could all non-graduates, and after a large amount of labor in the office we thought we had a probable address of 938 men, to each of whom we wrote for information concerning himself. One hundred and sixty-eight of the letters were returned by the post office "unclaimed." We infer that 770 of our letters were properly addressed and reached their destination, but we have received only 285 replies.

If any reader of this Bulletin was ever himself or herself a student in Old Asbury or DePauw, but did not graduate, or if the reader knows the present location and business of another of that description, it will be a favor to the University, and we hope it will bring a return of pleasure to himself or to that friend, if that reader will write the editor of DePauw Bulletin at once and give him the desired information about himself or about that other. If we are able to gather sufficient data to make it of general interest, we will devote the next issue of the Bulletin in November to a report on "The Out-of-College Doings and Present Location of the Non-Graduate Students of DePauw University."

DEATH IN THE FACULTY

For the first time in ten years, since the death of our honored and beloved Philip S. Baker, death has invaded our Faculty.

Mrs. Belle A. Mansfield, Dean of the Art School, died at the home of her brother, Judge Babb, in Aurora, Ill., August 1st.

She had been in failing health for a long time, and her friends have known for a year past that she was likely to pass away suddenly at any time.

She was a woman of commanding presence, strong mind, great heart, genial disposition, and very exceptional executive ability. She will be greatly missed in the College, in the church, and in the city of Greencastle at large.

REMARKS OF DR. H. A. GOBIN AT THE FUNERAL OF MRS. MANSFIELD, AURORA, ILLINOIS, AUGUST 3, 1911

"I am thankful that Miss Smith and I arrived in time to represent DePauw University in connection with the funeral of Mrs. Mansfield. I wish that time permitted for Miss Bessie Smith, a long time her intimate friend and co-worker, to say what she could so well say in her appreciation of her beloved colleague and friend. I must not detain you, for I know that you must soon take the train for the interment at the old home in Mount Pleasant.

"Mrs. Mansfield became identified with DePauw University in 1879, when her husband, the late Dr. Mansfield, became Professor of Biology. She at once entered with him into the life and activities of the institution. She not only encouraged and assisted her husband, but also became a leader in the social and religious affairs of the Faculty and the students. She was at once recognized as a leader of superior culture in every respect. She enjoyed a bright and active intellect in all varieties of study. She was self possessed and fluent in expression. Her services were sought after not only in meetings of college people and the church and the citizens of Greencastle, but also in neighboring cities. Her genuine and devout religious spirit made her of great value in all the Christian movements in the community. She held with much credit and efficiency several important positions in the church where she was a member. She was Superintendent of the Sunday School, a Steward of the Official Board, and a teacher of a large class of students, both young men and women. At one time she served as Professor of Æsthetics, for many years she was preceptress of Woman's Hall, and during another period she was Registrar of the University. Her most distinguished service was in the double capacity of Dean of the School of Music and the School of Art. In this position she exhibited a high order of business management. Both of these schools grew in attendance and efficiency under her administration.

"I assure you that as a college community we feel our bereavement deeply. A cloud of sadness will come over many a home in our land when the tidings come that this gifted teacher will be met no more in the greetings of college reunions and associations. Her life has been a blessing beyond all price to many other lives. All of her characteristics were such that she will be a very happy saint in the immortal life. This should be to us all, and especially her dear kindred, a very special consolation. Her nature and her task have given her a meetness for the inheritance of the saints in life. Her memory will be present forever with all who ever knew her.

"We pray that the divine blessing may be with you on your sad journey, that nothing will occur to increase your grief, but rather may the Divine Spirit, the Holy Comforter, bring such thoughts to your minds of the reality of her presence in the superior life that you will have a comfort divine and abiding."

While the shock occasioned by news of Mrs. Mansfield's death had yet abated but little, word came that Miss Margaret Overbeck, Instructor in the Art School, had died on Sunday, August 13th, after an illness of but a few days.

Her friend, Mrs. Gobin, at the editor's request, has written the brief tribute below :

MISS MARGARET OVERBECK

"In 1899 there came into the Art School life of DePauw University a beautiful woman, an incomparable artist, and a most skillful teacher. Endowed with a sweetness of expression in feature, her close application to a study of the beautiful enhanced her personality. Growing up in an artistic atmosphere (for all her immediate family are artists) and studying under the best teachers in Art, and with a conscientious desire to do her best, little wonder that in her brief life she accomplished what older artists have taken years to complete. With the best artists of Indiana, with whom her work was often exhibited, she took front rank. Her designs in the best art journals of America are invaluable and to students of all ages most helpful. Her pupils here and elsewhere will 'long for the touch of a vanished hand,' for so skillfully she taught, and with rare judgment so directed the work, that study became a joy, and to be with her was to desire to live well. We shall miss her sadly and always.

MRS. HILLARY A. GOBIN."

PERSONAL

The undergraduate students in the College do not have a monopoly in "College Cases." In recent years several of them have arisen between the bachelor men and maidens in the Faculty. Some months ago it was announced that Miss Mary Zabriskie, Instructor of Women in Physical Culture, would not return next year, for the reason that her "case" with Mr. Floyd E. Chidester, assistant in the Department of Biology last year, would come to its maturity in the wedding this fall.

Later still the word is out with full authentication that Miss Elizabeth Patterson Sawyers, until recently Professor in the Music School, and Professor R. B. von KleinSmid had fallen happy victims of the "case" contagion, and their marriage is expected in early September.

Milton J. Durham, '44, since the death of Dr. T. A. Goodwin, the oldest living alumnus of the College, died at his home in Lexington, Ky., February 12, 1911.

Thomas E. Talbott, after the death of Mr. Durham, the oldest graduate of "Old Asbury," member of the Class of '45, died at the home of his son-in-law, Major J. G. Dunbar, '61, July 22, 1911.

Dr. W. R. Genung, '45, has now the distinction of being the oldest living graduate and the privilege of carrying the Goodwin cane.

S. A. Lattimore, '50, was honored by the Rochester University Class of '90 at their recent Commencement. They presented to the University an oil portrait of the Doctor, who was for many years Professor of Chemistry in that institution.

Dr. Jeremiah Tingley, '50, was a recent visitor in Greencastle.

Rev. Dr. Ferd C. Iglehart, '67, State Superintendent of the New York Anti-saloon League, had a paper in the February Review of Reviews dealing with the "present status of the temperance cause as affected by legislation and elections of 1910."

John Overmyer, '67, has retired from the practice of law, and now devotes all of his time to travel, journalism and literature.

John R. Miller, '68, is gathering material for a chapter on "Old Asbury in the Civil War." If the reader of this item was himself in the army, or knows of other Asbury men who were in the army, it will be a favor to us and a justice to history if he will write Mr. Miller at once.

Rev. Dr. W. F. Walker, '68, was a visitor at Commencement, attended by three sons, all graduates of their father's alma mater, Guy M., '90, Merl N. A., '91, and Orin D., '99, two daughters-in-law, Mrs. Guy M., '90 (nee Minnie Royse), and Mrs. Orin D., '99 (nee Stella Hawkins), and two grandsons, sons of Guy and Minnie, who are now students in the institution.

Melville R. Hopewell, '69, Lieutenant-Governor of Nebraska, died at his home in Tekamah last May.

Charles G. Yohn, '69, retired merchant, living in New York City, was a recent visitor to the College, which he had not seen for many years.

William M. Ridpath, '70, returning from a trip around the world, gave his friends in Greencastle and vicinity a short visit a few months ago. He is a prominent figure in the political and commercial life of the State of Washington.

Agnes Rosabelle Rankin, '72, died at her home in Indianapolis June 3, 1911. Her body was brought to the family lot in Forest Hill Cemetery, Greencastle, for interment.

A. D. Mohler, '73, died at his home in Huntington, Ind., last May.

Andrew Whitsitt, '73, now practicing law in Harrisonville, Mo., made a welcome visit to his alma mater in June.

Oscar W. Ayer, '74, farmer and stock dealer at Staunton, Ind., died last March.

Noble D. Morris, '75, a prominent business man in New Albany, Ind., died very suddenly as a result of strain or over-exertion at a fire in the house of a neighbor, last April.

Under the title, "A Law Student's Recollection of Abraham Lincoln," Jesse W. Weik, '75, has published with explanatory introduction a paper written by Jonathan Birch, '58, and found among his effects after his death in 1906, in which Mr. Birch gives an interesting account of his acquaintance with Mr. Lincoln in Illinois before the war and of the examination Mr. Lincoln gave him for admission to the bar. Mr. Weik has suffered a great bereavement during the last year in the death of his good wife, nee Frances A. Hays.

Thomas A. Uzzell, '77, late resident of Denver, Col., died last December.

Willis Vandevanter, ex-'78, holds the highest seat of honor in professional life that is occupied by any son of DePauw. He is one of the recently-appointed Justices of the Supreme Court of the United States.

Newland T. DePauw, '79, whose wife died some years ago, was married last spring to Miss Hallie Mead, of Haymarket, Va.

John F. Carson, '79, a successful lawyer of Indianapolis, died last December.

Martha J. Ridpath, '79, Secretary of the Society of Alumni, has recently visited her brother William and other friends on the Pacific Coast.

Minnetta T. Taylor, '80, who had achieved rare distinction as a linguist and literary writer, died suddenly at her home in Greencastle in July, as the result of a fall and broken limb.

Oscar J. Craig, '81, at one time head of the Political Science Department of Purdue University, later President of the University of Minnesota, died at his home in San Diego, Cal., last March.

William R. Goodwin, '83, was a welcome visitor at the College very recently.

Martha Tarbell, '84, author of a popular annual "Teachers' Guide to the International Sunday-school Lessons," "The Geography of Palestine" and some school text-books, has written and published "In the Master's Country," 1910.

Edward B. T. Spencer, '88, since 1905 President of the Methodist College in Rome, Italy, has resigned, and returned with his family to this country. He has accepted the professorship of Latin in Iowa College, at Grinnell, Ia.

James H. Wilkerson, '89, Chicago, was recently nominated by President Taft to become United States District Attorney for the Northern District of Illinois, and the nomination was promptly confirmed by the Senate.

Warren W. Florer, '90, Professor of German in the University of Michigan, lectured last spring in Indianapolis and in Greencastle on "The Attitude of Modern German Poets Toward Religion."

Uichiro Sasamori, '91, who had achieved great distinction in his native Japan as teacher and preacher, died in June. He has left a wife and six children, the eldest about fifteen years old. If any reader of this item would take pleasure in contributing to the education of those children, please write THE BULLETIN to that effect.

L. H. Murlin, '91, has resigned the presidency of Baker University and accepted the presidency of Boston University. He did great work at Baker, and alma mater expects him to do great work at Boston.

Worth M. Tippy, '91, has again received appointment as preacher to Cornell University, at Ithaca, N. Y.

Elizabeth A. Rose, '91, is again in the ranks with teachers, being instructor in Latin and German in Monticello Seminary, at Godfrey, Ill. She is spending the summer in Europe.

Charles W. Hodell, '92, Professor of English in Goucher College, Baltimore, Md., delivered an address on "The Yellow Book and the Ring and the Book" on the occasion of the annual banquet of the Browning Club in Drew Theological Seminary, at Madison, N. J.

Perry E. Powell, '92, who retired from the pastorate some time ago in order to give all his time to the boys' society, "The Knights of the Holy Grail," of which he was the founder, has written "The Knights of the Holy Grail and Boy Scouts," to show what is the proper relation between the two societies.

The Christian Advocate of recent date contains an appreciative notice of the pastorate of the Rev. John S. Hoagland, D.D., '92, at the First Methodist Church of Mitchell, S. D. Since the beginning of his work there, two years ago, three hundred and fifty members have been added to the church, the Sunday-school has reached an enrollment of more than one thousand, a new pipe organ, costing $7,500, has been installed in the church, and the members of his congregation have subscribed $50,000 to the endowment of the Dakota Wesleyan University.

Miss Lilly D. Greene, '93, Principal of Hudson Memorial School, in Cawnpore, India, at home on furlough, was an honored and welcome guest of college friends during Commencement.

J. A. Sumwalt, '93, pastor of Broadway Methodist Church, Logansport, Ind., is rejoicing over a great victory whereby the heavy debt of nearly $30,000 against the church has been provided for.

George B. Lockwood, '94, editor and owner of The Marion Chronicle, is making a courageous fight for temperance in the political party in which he is a factor, which the politicians are obliged to take account of.

Roscoe H. Ritter, '95, who had made a good name for himself as a skillful practitioner of medicine in Indianapolis, died last May.

Joseph N. Greene, '95, pastor of the Methodist Church in Watertown, S. D., pleased his Indiana friends by a visit this summer.

Orville C. Pratt, '95, since 1907 Superintendent of Schools at Clinton, Ind., has resigned that position to accept the superintendency at Wabash.

Edward S. Shumaker, '95, Indiana State Superintendent of the Anti-saloon League, continues to make good against all odds. He is probably the one man above all others whom the rummies would like to see retired.

Daisy Florence Simms, '95, Secretary of the National Board of the Y. W. C. A., was one of the leading speakers at the recent State Convention held at Indianapolis.

Maynard Lee Daggy, '96, Professor in the University of Washington, is in large demand as a Chautauqua lecturer.

Paul J. Gilbert, '96, until recently assistant pastor of the First Methodist Church in Des Moines, Ia., was a visitor to alma mater during Commencement. Of course he was in vited to sing, and of course he consented, and pleased his friends very much by doing so.

Walter T. Marlatt, '96, city editor of The Evening News, Kenosha, Wis., called upon his Greencastle friends in May and visited his two brothers, who are now undergraduates in the University.

Ralph C. Norton, '96, world-traveled evangelist in company with Dr. Chapman, Mr. Alexander, et al., was with us for a day during Commencement.

Mrs. Ada Kent Phipps, '96, wife of Joseph G. Phipps, '97, of Bedford, Ind., was the guest of friends at Commencement.

Howard D. Wright, 1900, for several years in failing health, died May 11, 1911. He fought a good fight and won.

John Elmer Thomas, 1900, attorney, of Lawton, Okla., member and President pro tem. of the State Senate, is spoken of by a local newspaper as follows: "From the time of his entry into the Senate in 1907 Mr. Thomas has been one of its most capable and efficient members, and when the time came for the election of a new President pro tempore he had practically no opposition for that honor. And as he has always done, he is making good. The Senate has never had a more effective presiding officer, and no man in either house commands more universal respect for his ability and good fellowship."

Miss Sarah Emma Hickman, 1900, daughter of ex-Chancellor W. H. Hickman, '73, was married August 9th to Mr. Albert Hoyt Taylor, of the University of North Dakota, at Grand Forks.

George R. Throop, '01, Assistant Professor of Latin and Greek in Washington University, St. Louis, and Miss Esther Lincoln Fellows, of Swarthmore, Pa., were married recently.
